

301 Carlson Parkway, Suite 400
Minnetonka, MN 55305

February 16, 2015

To: Michael Foods Valued Customer
From: Steve Bacon, Vice President of Quality
Re: Recall of Natural Shaped Fried Egg Patties

Michael Foods, Inc. is voluntarily recalling a limited quantity of Natural Shaped Fried Egg Patties because of an improperly declared milk allergen.

The product contains butterfat, which is referenced by its common name (“butterfat”) in the ingredient statement, but does not declare the derived source as “milk.”

The following are the affected products, along with their dates and lot numbers:

GTIN	Description
10746025858796	Papetti’s® Table Ready® Natural Shaped Fried Egg Patties

Expiration Dates: February 11, 2015 thru January 26, 2016

As a precaution, Michael Foods, Inc. is removing affected product from distribution. Please place all current inventories on hold and contact any end-users that received the product. After product has been placed on hold, contact your Michael Foods Customer Service representative with remaining cases and expiration dates. At that time, we will assist you with disposition of remaining inventories.

When contacting end-users, please inquire whether the product is used in an application that properly declares “milk” as an allergen from an alternate source (e.g. – sausage, egg, and cheese sandwich). If so, no action is required and the product can be used as normal.

Please be aware that no adverse health concerns have been reported.

We sincerely apologize for the inconvenience of this recall. If you have any questions, feel free to contact your Michael Foods market manager or customer service representative.

